Part III DETAILED ACTION

Notice to Applicant(s)

1. This action is responsive to the following communications: amendment filed on 2/23/04.
2. This application has been reconsidered. Claims 1-13 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 1, 4, 5, 6, 10, 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tai et al (Tai) (U. S. 6,466,331).

With respect to claims 1, 4, 5, 10, and 13, Tai discloses an image processing apparatus (figure 2) comprising a plurality of rendering sections (140 and 150) arranged to respectively render color component data (column 6, lines 1-6) on the basis of data common to the respective color components (the scanned document), wherein each rendering section receives the common data and renders the common data into one of the color components (figure 2), and a converter (160) to convert the rendered color images into images for printing (column 9, line 62 to column 10, line 25).

With respect to claim 6, Tai discloses a delay section to compensate for timing differences in forming the color component images in the print engine (column 2, lines 14-24).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2, 3, 7, 8, 9, 11, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tai in view of Kawamoto (U. S. 5,978,563).

With respect to claims 2, 3, 11, and 12, Tai differs from claims 2, 3, 11 and 12 in that he does not clearly disclose the rendering devices comprise a memory having a capacity large enough to render at least a two band color component image obtained by dividing a page into bands. Kawamoto discloses plural rendering devices comprising memory large enough to render at least a two-band color component image obtained by dividing a page image into bands (column 6, lines 51-67 and column 8, lines 40-61). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tai wherein the page is divided into bands. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tai by the teaching of Kawamoto in order to improve the processing speed.

With respect to claims 7 and 8, Tai differs from claims 7 and 8 in that he does not clearly disclose the common data is made up of a display list and print element data. Kawamoto discloses the color component is made up of a display list and print element data (image data) (column 10, line 20 to column 11, line 55), wherein the display list is a list of print elements obtained by dividing a print image and arranged in an order of occurrence (column 10, line 64 to column 11, line 28). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tai wherein the common data is made up of a display list and print element data. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tai by the teaching of Kawamoto in order to more clearly define the input image stream.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 2/23/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant submits that Tai does not disclose plural rendering sections arranged to generate a respective one of plural color components wherein each rendering section receives data common to the respective color components and renders the common data. The Examiner disagrees.

Tai discloses plural rendering sections (140 and 150) arranged to generate a respective one of plural color components(column 6, lines 1-15) wherein each rendering section receives data common to the respective color components and renders the common data (column 6, lines 1-15 and lines 45-65 and column 7, lines 37-56).
